Col. Brown appreciates support and hard work

I take this opportunity to thank the community for the amazing farewell party this past Sunday night. Jane and I are touched by the events of the evening, and typical of most farewells, the roast was quite humorous. I didn't know I had comedians on my staff! (However, I hope none of you plan to quit your day jobs.)

My thanks to Mrs. Lee Allas for coordinating a wonderful event, and to Walter Turner and his KRS Food Service team for preparing a great meal.

Jane and I both were overwhelmed by the outpouring of thoughtfulness and generosity. We were repeatedly left speechless and although I know thank-you can never be enough for what all of you all have given me, I hope it will suffice.

As I said in my remarks that evening, I've had the honor and privilege of working with a wonderful staff. Each of you has had a deep impact on Jane and me, our time here, and the memories we take with us. I look forward to work each day because I am surrounded by an amazing group of people who consistently try their best to serve this community.

To the Kwajalein, Roi and Marshallese communities, thank you for embracing my family. You opened your arms to us and we immediately felt at home. I can't say it enough...this has been the best assignment Jane and I have had during our years in the military.

The change of command is Tuesday morning, and I hope to see many of you there. But, for those unable to make the ceremony, I want you to know I couldn't have done it without you-all of you. Collectively, you're a quality workforce, and everything you do is important to either support, prepare for, or to execute missions.

I'm going to Japan-to work for the commanding general of the US Forces Japan-as his chief of staff. It will be an exciting job, but cannot ever be as exciting and rewarding as these two years with you have been. I hope our paths cross in the future. Again, thank you for your support, your friendship, and your hard work.

Navy wins Leadership Golf trophy

By Jan Waddell
Reporter

The first annual Leadership Cup Golf Tournament was held Sunday and Monday at Holmberg Golf Course with the Navy team beating the Army team, 11-6.

The teams this year were Army vs. Navy with USAKA Commander Col. Jerry Brown and KRS President Ike Richardson as the team leaders.

A total of 36 residents participated in the tournament with each team comprised of 18 members.

Players were paired up to make two-man teams and then one team from each the Army and Navy played against each other.

Sunday's match up was stroke play and Monday's play was match play with the winning teams earning one point.

The lead-teams were Brown and Gerry Wolf playing for the Army and Richardson and Jim Rugg playing for the Navy.

On the first day of play Brown and Wolf downed Richardson and Rugg 58-64, but on the second day of play Richardson's team took the lead at seven holes up and only six holes left to play.

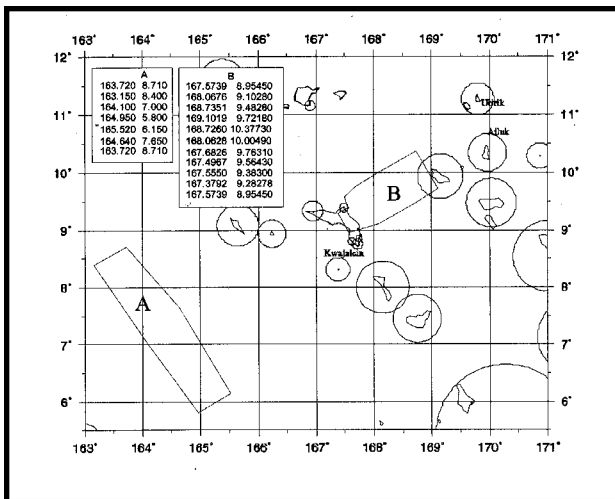

Brown attributed his victory, the first day, over Richardson's team, to a new golf club made for him by Lloyd Jordan called the Anti Ike Device club, according to Bob Butz, golf course superintendent.

On the first day of play individual winners were

Camp Adventure

Camilla Morrison
Staff Writer

On July 16, kids and their parents flocked to the Multi-Purpose Room with their treats in hand to attend this year's Summer Camp Dessertfest.

Before the doors opened at 7 p.m., Marissa Godfrey explained what the gathering was all about.

"People bring in desserts, and after they eat we'll go up and do skits and sing songs," Godfrey said. "Every two weeks we do something for the parents and this week just happens to be Dessertfest."

This week's presentation for the parents marked the end of the fifth week of Summer Camp.

While the audience enjoyed their desserts, Ann McCoy, Child and Youth Services coordinator, summarized what activities had been going on in Summer Camp and introduced each camp counselor.

Then, the kids gathered on the floor in front of the audience and watched each group perform a skit. The afternoon Hula and Drama Clubs also presented a skit and a dance.

At the conclusion of the performances, all 30 Summer Camp kids and their counselors stood in two lines and sang a series of songs led by one or two Summer Camp kids.

To end the night, the camp counselors surprised the kids with a slideshow of Summer Camp pictures taken over the past few weeks.

Assistant Youth Director, Heather Schantz, said, "I was very pleased with the turnout from the community. We had approximately 80 individuals from the community to watch the evening."

Kwaj Reservists answer the call

By April Brown
Reporter

They knew the call would come.

With no time for tears, Kwajalein residents, Mike Tracy and Bert Godlewski, began packing their bags and filing the proper paperwork before they answer the call of duty. Godlewski and Tracy are both reservists and they've been called up to join their fellow Soldiers, on the other side of the world.

"I wasn't really surprised," Tracy said. "It was a matter of when, not if."

Godlewski and Tracy share the same attitude when it comes to serving their country, no matter what the danger, whatever lies ahead.

"It's just another adventure," Godlewski said with a smile. "The interesting part is you go for a year and you get to take two 70-pound bags. I'll be buying some new socks."

Tracy, a quality analyst for KRS Quality Systems, is in the middle of his second tour on Kwajalein, with his wife Lisa.

Now his days are filled with preparation and quality time with his youngest children, Ryan, 13, and Christine, 12.

"The kids have been really cool," he said. "Every night they've been coming home and hanging out with dad. It's been neat to spend quality time with them."

His oldest son, Travis, 20, who is in college in South Carolina, will meet him in Honolulu on his way to report for duty.

"I'm going to see Travis in Honolulu for four days," Tracy said. "Then he's going to come on and stay with his family here for a couple of weeks."

Tracy's unit was placed on alert July 6 with orders to report for training at Fort Bliss, Texas, and then on to Fort Polk, La., to wait for deployment.

When Tracy learned where he was assigned he knew what his ultimate deployment was.

Tracy joined the Hawaii Army Reserve Unit when his family moved back to Kwajalein. He originally was active duty from 1976-79. After 20 years out of the service, almost 11 of those spent on Kwajalein from 1988-98, he joined a reserve unit in South Carolina in 1998 to achieve the rank of Warrant Officer.

"My wife thinks I'm having a mid-life crisis," he said with a smile. "I just like being with the troops."

Tracy spends time with the troops every other month. Due to location, instead of doing one weekend a month which is the typical reservist requirement of duty, Tracy spends four days every other month with his unit, along with two weeks every year.

"We try to do the regular tasks an Army [unit] would do in that weekend," he said.

The training with his unit has kept him and his family prepared for what to expect.

"It's something we'd already talked about...the what-ifs," he said. "There's nothing you can do about it. It's just your turn."

Godlewski received a similar reaction from his family.

"[They said] OK, let's get it over with," he said.

Unlike Tracy who trains with a unit that he is deployed with, Godlewski is an Individual Mobilization Augmentee.

"They bring us into an active duty unit based on our [job] specialty," he said. "We're already trained in our specialty. We're just guys that go report to our units."

Godlewski came off of active duty as a Lieutenant Colonel in 1992 finishing 14 years of service as an officer and enlisted soldier. He has a reserve obligation until 2025. He reports to Aberdeen Proving Grounds Aug. 1 for in-processing. From there he transfers to Letterkenny Army Depot in Chambersburg, Pa.

"From there I am available for world-wide deployment," he said.

Godlewski works for USAKA as an equipment specialist. Like Tracy, his family will remain on Kwaj during his time away.

"I'm in Temporary Duty Status the whole time," he said.

His daughter Gil, 18-years old, is taking a year off from school to be with her mother Jody and the two, along with his son Spencer, 14, have plans to travel over the next year.

"They're coming to see me, then go to Bali, and maybe Hong Kong," he said.

Despite the two men both being reservists, their jobs are extremely different. Tracy will serve as Maintenance Officer for a support battalion while deployed.

"We do a little bit of everything," he said. "Anything you can think of that you would need to support troops, it's all included."

Godlewski, on the other hand, is a logistician.

"Most of my time is actually going to be spent on rebuilds and maintenance," he said.

Although the potential for danger is high, the fear hasn't kicked in for either man, according to Tracy.

"I'm just really not nervous about it," he said. "I'm not nervous or scared. I know there are times I'm going to be. But right now it's just a matter of something mentally you have to prepare yourself for. [I know] there will be times I'll be more scared than I've been in my life."

But until that moment comes, these men are full speed ahead and ready to get the job done.

"You go there, you go to work and you do what you do," Godlewski said. "You hit the ground running."

Both men said they were glad they were here on Kwaj when they received the call.

"What a great place to have your family when you get deployed," Godlewski said.

With promises from co-workers to keep tabs on his family, Godlewski said updating the paperwork is the most consuming task. Tracy has received the same treatment from KRS.

"KRS has been totally supportive," he said. "My boss, Steve Metta, has been 100 percent behind what I'm doing and on up the chain. And that's made it a lot easier."

Tracy said he's ready, but his mind is already on what's to come.

"I'm just ready to go, to have boots on the ground," he said. "The biggest concern I have is taking care of the troops because they are pretty young. A lot of them are just out of high school. I don't think they know yet what's in store. Once we start training they'll understand."

The longest putt was made by Bob Burt on hole 10.

Two players made closest to the hole, Ann Hosti's on hole 13 and Doland on hole 18.

On the second day of play Dennis Gaare took the longest drive award on hole nine and Renee Davie took the longest drive on hole 11.

Two players took closest to the hole, Jordan's win was on hole six and Rugg took hole 15 and two.

The longest match, on the second day, was won by Russell Beniamina and Ken Standridge who defeated Doland and Steeves three holes up with one hole left to play.

The winning team was presented with the Leadership Cup trophy.

The tournament was sponsored by KRS as a way to improve relationships between the evaluators and the contractor said Joe Marshall.

"We will do it again next year," Marshall said.

Next year the Navy team will defend the cup against another Army team.

Ronnie J. Mwekto

Ronnie J. Mwekto, 45, of Ebeye, passed away in his home Sunday, July 18, after a long battle with cancer.

Mwekto was born on Majuro.

Mwekto is survived by his wife, Neibar Mwekto, and his children, Ruby, Steven, John, Tony, Tilton and six grandchildren.

Mwekto was an employee of the Pest Management Department since 1995 and was referred to as a good friend, good coworker and a good person by Mike Nicholson, Installation Pest Management supervisor.

Mwekto was a certified Pest Management Specialist and had renewed his certifications last September.

Nicholson said Mwekto was not only an excellent employee and very knowledgeable in pest control, but he was a good friend and will be missed by his coworkers and the entire Republic of the Marshall Islands and Kwajalein communities.

"I know that some ask, during these times, if a person made a difference in this world," Nicholson said. "I can say Ronnie did make a difference to many of us. I will truly miss my friend."

The family is waiting for the arrival of other family members from Majuro before making final arrangements.

Donations to the Mwekto family can be made by contacting Nicholson at 54738 or 51091.

The court will make the appointment following an FBI full-field investigation and an IRS tax check of the applicant selected by the court for appointment. An affirmative effort will be made to give due consideration to all qualified applicants, including women and members of minority groups. The current annual salary of the position is $3,662. The term of office is four years. More information on the magistrate judge position may be obtained from the Clerk of the U.S. District Court or the chairperson of the selection panel.

Balancing AC/RC force structure impacts 100K positions

By Joe Burlas

Army News Service

Editor's note: This is part of a series of articles on the Army's 17 immediate focus areas. The changes planned under Army Chief of Staff Gen. Peter Schoomaker's Active-Component/Reserve-Component Balance focus area will mean more civil affairs, military police, transportation and port operations Soldiers in the Army, and fewer artillerymen, air defense troops and Ordnance Soldiers.

WASHINGTON - Gen. Peter Schoomaker told members of Congress at the end of January that the active Army will temporarily grow by about 30,000 soldiers over the next few years to ensure the Army meets its worldwide commitments in the war on terrorism while resetting and rebalancing to be more ready and relevant. AC/RC balance is about restructuring capabilities across the force, not changing the end strengths of the active, Reserve and National Guard components of the Army, said Col. Paul Hilton, chief of Programs, G3, whose branch conducted analysis in support of the focus area. The current authorized strengths are 482,400 for the active Army; 205,000 for the Army Reserve; and 350,000 for the Army National Guard. The Guard and Reserve have been integrally involved with the redesign planning and decision-making process from its inception, a senior Army official said. He added that the force balancing is designed to increase readiness, relevance, predictability, sustainability, survivability, and deployability to enhance the warfighter.

"This effort reflects the times we live in and the threats the nation faces in the contemporary operating environment," Hilton said. "It is about us being more ready and relevant to do the things we have to do against those who would do us harm today, and not the structure we built to face massive Soviet armored formations across the Fulda Gap during the Cold War." The rebalance of forces supports the chief's "Modularity" concept which will move the Army to a brigade-based design, Hilton said. Changing the Army structure is not new; it is something the Army analyzes annually as it looks toward future needs and prepares its budget for Congress to approve, Hilton said. In fact about a third of the 100,000 spaces the restructure calls for were identified and planned for prior to Schoomaker coming out of retirement to take the reins of Army leadership as chief of staff last summer, he said. Specifically, routine Army analysis demonstrated the need to increase its numbers of special forces, military police and civil affairs capabilities within the active force shortly following the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001. Today in the AC there are 482,400 soldiers authorized, but the Army only has enough units to use 419,000 of them, Hilton said. That way the Army can account for soldiers who are in initial-entry training or between units. Both the Guard and Reserve now have more unit spaces than they have authorizations for, Hilton said. He explained this has meant that units can never be fully manned. This method made sense during the Cold War when the potential need to rapidly expand the force was more important than readiness in reserve units, Hilton said, but does not meet the Army's need today. The Army National Guard will reduce unit structure from 388,000 to around 342,000 spaces while maintaining all of the 350,000 people they are authorized today. Likewise the Army Reserve will only have about 185,000 spaces for the 205,000 authorizations they are allowed, Hilton said. He said the same number of people spread across fewer units will improve manning and personnel readiness. On paper, Hilton said, the Army has enough units to source requirements, but the reality on the ground is that not all of those units are really available. Hardest hit will be the Army's field artillery community, which recently lost a brigade's worth of National Guard artillerymen who are currently being trained to serve as military police officers. The Army plans to disband a significant number of artillery battalions in the active force and the National Guard, Hilton said. The Army's short-range air defense artillery is another bill payer at the division and below level. "We are still going to keep some SHORAD capability at the corps level in the AC and actually fill previous shortfalls at echelons above division in the National Guard," Hilton said. About 4,000 manning slots will come from the recently eliminated 71L, clerk-typist, and military occupational specialty. "Many Reserve and National Guard Soldiers have an affinity for the units they are in or the particular jobs they are doing," Hilton said. "In some cases those Soldiers are in units where their fathers, grandfathers and great grandfathers have served." While some have already started, most of the rebalance efforts will occur between 2005 and 2007.
